Dr Chris-Carol Bremer, Senior Vice President Commercial Strategy, Grünenthal

Dr. Chris-Carol Bremer has been with Grünenthal for close to 15 years in different commercial roles, ranging from strategy and brand development for NCEs, to launching and managing brands and portfolios in different indications and regions, including Europe and Latin America.

He is currently the Senior Vice President Commercial Strategy for Grünenthal Europe and Member of the European Board and R&D Board. In this role he is amongst others responsible for the identification and assessment of future external growth opportunities ranging from R&D projects as early as pre-clinical to marketed products.

Chris earned his medical degree from Hannover Medical School, a PhD in exercise physiology from the University of Hamburg as well as an MBA from INSEAD in Singapore and France.
